

Please be mindful of how many people are coming before choosing which area of the pub you are going to occupy.

There is a tendency for people to get themselves into the more intimate and cosy areas, without any consideration for the number of people who will be coming. Not good for when people are coming for the music session / socialising / whatever.

New Years at The Phoenix, this year was a prime example.